University Of Tulsa House

unexpected ministry house is a perfect fit in a great location near one of the key campuses in our region. On September 29th our Board of Directors approved the purchase, agreeing to utilize existing properties if necessary to acquire the property, but we are praying that many of you will be available to help us with this expansion. Due to the short window of time before we close on this property this will be the only information you receive before the purchase is final. We believe this is the right property at the right campus even if it is financed. Yet, debt-free the property could product up to $18,000 a year for the mission field! Every year!! Please pray about multiplying your funds through this venture.

Where else can you invest in college students, fund missions in the most desperate regions on the planet, and create a permanent endowment through real estate all with one check. Sounds like a God-thing! (Business analysts – eat your heart out!)

Thank you for making these expansions possible!!

THE UNIVERSITY OF TULSA HOUSE

Sometimes you're looking for God's Will and find it; other times it sneaks up on you from behind.

This past April, Kevin McCollum traveled to India scouting out new partnerships in areas not currently supported by Lightbearers. One of his stops was in the Gateway City of Hyderabad, a quick over-nighter, lodging with an old friend before heading to the Kashmir region early the next morning. During the brief visit, he met another couple from the States who lived in the apartment below where he was staying, and who worked for the Kingdom in this mega city. After trekking for a week in the rural mountains of India, Kevin was exhausted and unable to give any additional energy to "connecting" with any new people, and additionally, this was only intended to be a rest and reunion stop-over. With that, this encounter was brief, and seemingly uneventful. (Pause)

During the spring, the leadership at Lightbearers began to sense that another property and a new campus was on the horizon, and we began making plans towards the upcoming expansion, looking towards the fall of 2007 as our official "launch" date. We clearly of the story!) (Un-Pause)

Out of the blue, around mid-August, Kevin McCollum received an e-mail regarding a property that Lightbearers should consider. When he called the owner to discuss the property, the person on the other end of the line said, "Didn't we meet? ... In Hyderabad, India? ... We were the couple staying downstairs from you when you over-nighted there." WOW! Could this be possible? Only God could have arranged this "coincidence." This couple did not contact Lightbearers as a result of their India meeting with Kevin; someone else brought their house to us. They were just as shocked as we were to make the connection! (Another chapter in our Lightbearers' Connect-the-Dots Adventures!) Needless to say, we took the opportunity seriously, and have seen God's confirmation as we have put it before Him. (Fast Forward) identified the new campus, ran demographics, identified a ministry partner, etc. Excited, we began the process of raising the necessary funds to purchase a house at the new campus, solidifying its ability to generate funds for the mission field for years to come. The missing ingredient? The specific property. Our prayer has been, "Lord, show us which house you want us to purchase." To our astonishment, He brought the answer to our prayer this past month. He clarified which house we were to acquire, BUT IT'S ON THE WRONG CAMPUS!! It is 180 miles from our new campus! Of course, it isn't really on the wrong campus; God's plan is that we expand to both campuses, one expected – another unexpected. (Which campus? You're getting ahead

To complete the story, here's the ending: Our newest Lightbearers' campus will be the University of Tulsa. Our
